

Gregory Attacks Social Ills

Dick Gregory's Jan. 17 convocation address to Wartburg students, "Social Problems: Social or Anti-Social," covered a wide spectrum of ills affecting the nation: the war, the press, the energy crisis, black-white relations, the law of karma, and the new American "nigger," the white youth.

Gregory vowed April 21, 1971, to fast until the Viet Nam War ended. Since that time he has only taken water and fruit juice for nourishment. The man who has gone from 191 to 98 pounds in a year and half quipped, "I'm hungry. I hope you didn't come too far to get here because if the war ended now in the middle of my speech...."

DISCUSSING THE MASS MEDIA, Gregory said, "A sad tragedy of today is the press. They don't inform the people. Eighty-seven per cent of all newspapers are advertisements.

The press has the freedom to inform the masses but does not take advantage of it."

Commenting on the energy crisis now affecting the country, Gregory said, "The energy crisis is going to make America the most integrated country in the world."

He explained this by stating, "By 1985 we will be running short 15 billion gallons of oil a year. The only place that can supply us with the oil we need is Africa, but because of our black problem Africa will never give us oil. When the five white families that run the United States decide we need the oil, they'll clean up the black problem."

Talking about today's values, he said, "There is nothing wrong with the constitution. It's the American people that are causing the problems. Our country has a misplaced system of values....When are we going to have the same respect for people as we do for flags?"

ON ANOTHER ISSUE, Gregory said that we should become aware of the karmic law.

"Karma has often been mistaken as God," said Gregory, "but a good definition would be 'as you do it so it will be done to you.' There is a definite balance of negative and positive forces."

On another topic, Gregory said, "America has always needed a scapegoat," but that it was no longer the blacks. "The 'nigger' has gone from the Indians to Chicanos, to Jews, to Catholics, to blacks, and now to the white youth.

Gregory concluded by saying that the youth of today has a big job to do, starting with setting our priorities straight. He cautioned that neither violence nor drugs are the answer.

"Each individual must begin with himself in order to solve this gigantic problem."

Campus Plans Response to War

BY BECKY BELL

A three-day fast will highlight a week of "repentance, reconciliation and rehabilitation" to be sponsored on campus Jan. 20-24 by the Wartburg Peace Action Committee (WPAC), according to junior committee member Mary Jo Loveland.

Other scheduled events include films and discussions on Viet Nam, folk music entertainment and a Wednesday morning worship service in Neumann Auditorium, which possibly may be followed by a silent vigil on the bridge downtown over the noon hour, she said.

THE FAST will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 22, 23 and 24. Students may donate any meal or meals on any of the three days by signing up at the table set up in the cafeteria by the WPAC.

The purpose of the fast, according to Miss Loveland, is to raise money for medical aid to be sent to Viet Nam.

"For each meal forfeited, 45 cents will be sent to the American Friends Service Committee for medical expenses at the Quang Ngai Rehabilitation Center, a hospital in Viet Nam," she said.

Since there are four rehabilitation centers which give priority to soldiers and veterans, the Quaker Center in Quang Ngai is strictly for civilians injured in the war.

"Although this hospital has been declared neutral, it has been bombed and damaged on several occasions," Miss Loveland said. "These people and other groups need funds in order to be able to continue their medical operations."

BEFORE THE FAST, WPAC is sponsoring an informal workshop Saturday, Jan. 20, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Student Union.

"We are sponsoring the gathering in conjunction with the other activities around the nation to coincide with Nixon's inauguration," Miss Loveland explained.

Saturday's agenda includes folk music entertainment by WPAC members senior Pat McClintock and sophomore Jeff Jakober from 5 to 6 p.m. in Buhr Lounge. Following that films on Viet Nam and a discussion of the different Viet Nam medical programs will be held.

Films to be shown include "The Back Seat Generals" and "Another Family for Peace."

"The Back Seat Generals" is a documentary film which skillfully represents the reality of United States military involvement in Laos," said Miss Loveland. "The situation is presented through interviews with local Mao tribesmen (including a 10-year-old soldier) who are being encouraged to carry on a battle they cannot win, the American who is most responsible for their encouragement, and people who have been there and do not like what they have seen."

"ANOTHER FAMILY FOR PEACE" is about four American families who have been affected by the Viet Nam War, according to Miss Loveland. One family's son was killed in action, another one came home disabled. One family's son became a conscientious objector and still another went to Canada.

Also on Saturday, information on the Medical Aid to Indochina programs will be available in the Student Union.

In conjunction with this, the Council on Religious Life will have writing materials on hand for people who wish to write letters to their Congressmen.

Statement by Student Mobilization Committee

Scores of student leaders from throughout the country have endorsed the Jan. 19 and 20 anti-war activities, including Ron Ehrenreich, vice president of the National Student Association (NSA); Ngo Vinh Long, international representative of the National Student Union of South Vietnam; The College Press Service; Jeffrey Carple, president of the Student Government of Princeton University, and the Brandeis University Student Council.

Activities planned for Jan. 19 on high school and college campuses around the country range from demonstrations and rallies, to teach-ins and mass send-off meetings for students traveling to Washington. A large student contingency is also being organized for the Washington march.

As Chuck Petrin, national staff member of the SMC, stated: "Peace has been 'at hand,' 'within reach' and 'around the corner' for too many years, and people are just not buying any more excuses. As Richard Nixon ponders his war plans during the coming weeks, one of the most important factors he will have to contend with is the mounting outcry of millions of students across this country, and the frightening specter of a massive and united antiwar movement."

Editorial Forum

The Viet Nam War and the Presidential Inauguration—what could be as contrasting in today's society?

With Dick Nixon entering his second term, citizens still have the war facing them and the same president who has said, "I want a generation of peace," but has been unsuccessful in ending a war that is unpopular and unsupported by the majority of the people he represents.

There is very little that an individual can do, but within a large organized group his opinions can be demonstrated to top level officials. By doing this the citizen shows that he understands what is happening and that he wants the war stopped immediately.

The connection between the two events will be brought clearly into the open Inauguration Day, Saturday, Jan. 20, with mass rallies, walks on Washington, D.C., and with demonstrations located at various places throughout the country.

Here on the Wartburg Campus the week-end will be filled with lectures and films and will be highlighted by a three day fast for participating Wartburg students.

Even though I am a Nixon supporter, I feel that along with others, I must and should support these rallies and demonstrations. The government has to learn again that it must listen to the opinions of the people and act accordingly.

During the past two years organized social activities at Wartburg have been relatively unsuccessful. Inadequate financing, frequent mismanagement by students, and disinterested administrative leadership have resulted in a campus activities program that is generally unsatisfying and limited.

A first step toward remedying this situation was taken last fall with the Regents' decision to increase the activity fee by three dollars. This will raise an additional $3,000 for the Social Activities Committee, which should enable the Committee to finance a more diverse schedule of events and reduce admission charges for dances, movies and other activities.

Adequate funding will not, however, insure an improvement in Wartburg's social life. Without administrative leadership and conscientious student participation in planning, the extra money will no doubt be frittered away on poorly conceived, mismanaged activities.

A survey of various colleges indicates that successful activity programming is more likely when the program is directed by an administrator. At colleges using this arrangement, the director works in a fluid relationship with students and is responsible for coordinating and, if necessary, initiating activities. Students maintain effective control of the program through their membership on the activities committee. A similar administrative position could be created at Wartburg by consolidating the present responsibilities of the the Union Director and the Senate-appointed social activities director.

Along with sufficient funding and a non-student director, the Social Activities Committee needs active student involvement. This has recently been lacking and as a result Wartburg students have had little diversity in campus social life.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

These are important days for those who are concerned about U.S. involvement in Indochina. The President again is seeking an "honorable" peace. Should he fail to agree on a settlement, Congressmen have promised to fight for the cutting of war funds.

For those who have prayed for peace, for those who have wept for the 130,000 Americans dead and wounded, for those who seek the return of more than 500 men missing in action, for these people peace is important.

Since Mr. Nixon has been in office, more than 3.7 million tons of bombs have been dropped on Indochina, in support of the Theiu regime, a regime which executed 40,000 civilians without trial. Theiu, himself, was elected because no one could be paid enough to run against him.

Don't allow the light of peace to be buried again by massive bombing attacks. Don't continue to sit in the "security" of apathy while 60 per cent of your tax money is spent on war machinery. Express your opinions to your Congressmen, whatever they may be. Booths will be set up in the Student Union Saturday, January 20 from 3 to 8 p.m., in the dorm lounges and Buhr Lounge on Monday, January 22 from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Envelopes, stamps, information and the addresses of your Congressmen and Senators will be available. I encourage you to express your opinion. Perhaps our country can turn from waging war to aiding humanity.

This project is sponsored by the Council on Religious Life. If you would like to help in any way, please call ext. 347.

Choir, Whalum Interpret Music

BY BARB MARTIN

Dr. Wendell Whalum and the Wartburg Gospel Choir, under the direction of sophomore Keith Barrow, combined forces Monday to present a convo of Afro-American music.

Originally from Atlanta, Georgia, Dr. Whalum spent the past weekend here serving as guest conductor of the high school Meistersinger Choir.

In his convo presentation Monday, Dr. Whalum sought to project the history of the black man through his music. Progressing from the oldest collection of slave songs to modern-day jazz, he exposed the people behind the spirituals, worksongs, songs of sorrow, blues hymns, and ragtime jazz.

He described the significance of Negro spirituals as lying in their ability to "take words of the scripture and turn them around into simple language with a hidden meaning."

He further stated, "The marvel is that they were so cleverly put together that these songs could later be taken in and used by Christian churches."

It would appear that students at Wartburg don't care one iota what happens to their money for student government and social activities.

Funny how people don't really know what is going on around this glorious establishment of higher education. It's bad enough in class when the instructor crams his or her own opinions down your throat, but it's down right irresponsible that students either don't know or refuse to know what the student body president or senators are doing.

1972 was supposed to be the year that the youth vote decided the election, and the year that the better-educated, more-responsible 18-21 year olds voted for the first time. Everybody knows that! Well, then, if all students at Wartburg are better educated and more responsible, then why doesn't Student Senate and the student body president reflect this?

The student body president, to my knowledge, finished only one course last term, but on the other hand he stacked the Student Senate executive committee with persons who share only his opinions, "recruited" three people to be approved for the positions of Ombudsmen through proposals!

If running a very efficient political machine is any criterion for being judged better educated and more responsible, then our student body president should have a very bright future!

Also the members of the Student Senate should have a bright future in knowing how to clean-up after kowtowing to a self-styled dictator. Maybe this is the educational facet of Wartburg College.

So It Goes

By John Becker

Ever have the urge to be a race car driver? Couldn't you just picture yourself racing around that oval track passing up the competition that's battling furiously on both sides of you? Suddenly the small red Ferrari makes his move down the inside and shoots out ahead on the final straightaway to win the race. Too dangerous and too expensive for you? Try roller skating!

If you can afford to spend a dollar and can talk someone into driving as far as Waterloo, you have a chance of turning that boring Friday night into an exciting evening. But I should warn you. The weekend hangout of every kid under the age of sixteen who lives anywhere near the Waterloo Airport must be the Blackhawk Rollerdrome. There's short kids, tall kids, young kids, old kids, fat kids, skinny kids, little angels and juvenile delinquents. There's kids everywhere. Fifteen year old girls sneaking a cigarette, ten year old boys playing tag, and seven year olds zooming between your legs.

Oddly enough, it's the kids that make it fun. It would probably get pretty boring skating around in circles all night if you didn't have to be constantly on the lookout to avoid accidents. Cutting quickly to your left to avoid an overactive youngster passing at double your speed, you bump into a romantic young couple on your other side and must cut your apology off quickly to minimize the pain you are going to inflict when you come crashing down on the ball of flesh that recently fell in front of you.

If you like a lot of action and a lot of people around, you should try it. If you like to just watch people, you should try it too. If you hate kids, stay at home.

One more thing. If you go, leave early, because the parents of all those kids can make quite a traffic jam out front when they come to pick the kids up.

SBP Lawrence Makes Proposals

Student Body President Jerry Lawrence presented three proposals on college financial issues at the Student and Faculty Exchange (SAFE) committee meeting Jan. 10.

He proposed a revision of the activity fee schedule so that the real cost of the various activities be accurately listed. As an example of inaccurate activity fee scheduling, Lawrence cited athletics. Under the present schedule, $12 of each activity fee is used for intercollegiate athletics when in reality approximately $50 of each fee is used for this purpose.

Lawrence did not propose a hiking of costs, but a reaccounting of the lump sum paid by each student.

In line with the activity fee proposition, Lawrence recommended publication of the complete college budget (except salaries, for use by all members of the Wartburg community. The committee decided that this would not be a feasible idea since the budget is not a self-evident document.

SAFE decided to recommend that a simplified program budget be made available to members of the Wartburg community. They also decided to ask President Bachman to issue a statement concerning availability of information about the college budget.

Finally, SAFE agreed to recommend to the Board or Regents that two student members, one voting and one observer, be added to the Budget Committee of Wartburg College.

PETE GRIFFIN drives around a Central player and draws a foul. The Knights won 80-71.

'Beavers Tonight'

Knights Are First, 4-0

BY JIM GROSSER
Wartburg's top-of-the-conference cagers play host to basement-dweller Buena Vista in Knights Gym tonight. Tomorrow night they travel to Mt. Pleasant to play Iowa Wesleyan.

Buena Vista, winner of two of its last three outings including an 87-86 upset over Simpson, is a young club with three freshmen in its starting lineup.

"Our scouts came back from Storm Lake impressed with the Beavers after their 86-61 win over Dana (Neb.)," Coach Buzz Levick said. "They have good speed and are possibly the best fast-break club in the conference. They also have good depth and are a good shooting team. It's true they lack experience, but on a given night they can really go."

IOWA WESLEYAN is a veteran club. "They possess good speed," Levick commented. "They have some exceptional scorers; their offensive average of 81.3 proves that."

A new player, Scott Brees, has completed his 18-week sit-out period as stipulated by the NAIA after transferring from Iowa State. The 5-10 speedster from Cedar Falls received high praise from Levick.

"We'll use him as a spot player until he proves himself under game conditions, but we feel he'll help us," Levick added. "His quickness and ability to penetrate defenses will be his biggest assets. He is definitely the quickest player on our squad."

The Knights grabbed two more games last weekend by defeating Central, 80-71, and soundly walloping Simpson, 71-40.

THESE TWO victories marked a couple of individual milestones. The Saturday night win was Levick's 150th win at Wartburg (150-42) and the two games saw center Frank Stewart pull down 22 rebounds, giving him a career total of 560, good enough for 10th place among Wartburg's all-time rebounders and just one short of ninth place.

"Stewart's play was encouraging," Levick said of his postman. "He scored 38 points to go along with his 22 rebounds and that should help his confidence."

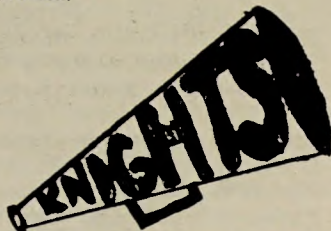

Rebounding was very critical in the Central game. Each team shot about the same percentage, but Wartburg dominated the boards, 46-29.

The Knights had many more foul shots offensively, which provided them with a working margin early in the game. This followed right in line with Coach Levick's theory that "Those who rebound well usually will win."

WRA

Next Wednesday the following W.R.A. basketball teams will face each other. Starting at 7:30, Centennial Ground against Hebron II; Vollmer II and III vs. Hebron III. At 8:15, Ernst will play Centennial II and Ottersberg faces Centennial III. At 9 p.m. Schmidt will meet Hebron Ground.

Games were canceled Jan. 17 because of convocation. On January 10, Schmidt beat Centennial II by 11 points. Vollmer II and III were defeated by a score of 37 to 5 by Hebron I. Ernst won 33 to 27 over Hebron II. Hebron III lost by four points to Ottersberg. Hebron Ground had a victory of 49 to 4 over Centennial Ground.

CRAIG WIERSON goes up for a rebound in the Knights win over Simpson.

BENCHTIME

By Sam Weaver

Someone once said that he who guesses is a fool and he who does not is sometimes also a fool. Therefore you've got nothing to lose by taking a crack at this week's quiz. Answers are at the bottom of the column.

1. Coach Levick once coached basketball at the same high school where three of this year's squad graduated from. Where is the school located?

2. Which of the following broke Stan Musial's Major League baseball record of five home runs in a double-header: a. Richie Allen b. Nate Colbert c. Harmon Killebrew.

Defense, defense, defense. I once heard a coach say, "It's not whether you win as long as you win." Two weeks ago the NCAA convention denounced such an attitude, but back to the original point, winning is everything and defense wins.

How does the old sports cliché go, defense makes a good offense. Coach Buzz Levick's cagers are proving it true as they lead the Iowa conference defensively allowing only 52.5 points a game. Meanwhile the Knights are second offensively 75.5. The Knights are 4-0 in league play, being tied for first place with Luther.

Playing defense is a matter of correct attitude and determination. Coach Levick seems to instill a winning attitude with emphasis on defense. A prime example of defense would be guard Pete Griffin.

Game after game Griffin stalks other players like a lion does his prey. Two weeks ago he played some of his best defense of the year with flu and weight loss. William Penn's Joe Gebhardt pumped in a loose-earned 18 points. Griffin commented after the game, "If he gets 18 next time I guard him, he'll have to get them out of the bleachers."

As mentioned, Wartburg currently is deadlocked with Luther. Every year Luther talks a good game but this year they have a team to back it up. When we meet Luther, defense will tell the story.

Like the cliché goes, defense makes a good offense.

ANSWERS TO QUIZ
1. Coach Levick, Pete Griffin and J.D. Gardner were all at one time at a school in Newton, Iowa.
2. Nate Colbert (b) hit seven home runs in a doubleheader in San Diego this year.
